[illegible] NOT AT HAND

By United Press.

[illegible] SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 1.—Indications that a [illegible] of breaks in delegations now bound by the unit rule may be ex[illegible] in the Democratic convention [illegible] shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon when Florida, raised the [illegible] and was able to change her 12 [illegible] for McAdoo to 11 for McAdoo and one for Smith.

The break brought a big cheer from the crowd in the Garden. It did not [illegible] much in actual votes at the moment, but this cracking of the units carried with it vast potentialities.

The switch in Florida enabled Smith to hold his high mark of 312½ and reduced McAdoo to 470½, a loss of seven and one-half votes from the 18th or opening ballot of the day. The balloting was proceeding much faster today than yesterday. The first two ballots of the morning were taken within an hour and only 45 minutes was required for the 13th, including time taken for debate on the unit rule by members of the Florida delegation.

Total 19th ballot: Smith, 312½; McAdoo, 470½; Cox, 60; John W. Davis, [illegible]; Glass, [illegible]; Robinson, 22; Underwood, [illegible]; Walsh, 3; Governor Bryan, 11; Ritchie, 16½; Governor Davis, 10; Saulsbury, 6; Cordell Hull, [illegible].

Smith picked up five votes in Connecticut and two in Michigan on the 17th ballot when these delegations had polled and caucused. This brought his total to 313½. McAdoo for the first time showed a loss, dropping from 475 on the 16th ballot to 471½ on the 17th. At the close of this ballot his managers were scurrying about the floor and prospects were that they would [illegible] out additional scattered votes on the 18th ballot to make up the difference.

Smith, 311½; McAdoo, 474; Cox, 60; John W. Davis, 84½; Glass, 30; Ralston, 31; Robinson, 22; Underwood, 39½; Walsh, 3; Governor Bryan, 11; Ritchie, 17½; Governor Davis, 0; Saulsbury, 6; Copeland, 1.

20th ballot:

Smith, 307½; McAdoo, 432; John W. Davis, 122; Glass, 25; Ralston, 30; Robinson, 21; Underwood, 45½; Walsh, 1; Bryan, 11; Ritchie, 17½; Governor Davis, 10; Saulsbury, 6; Dever, 1; Senator Hitchcock, 1; Baker, 1.

21st ballot:

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 1.—An all-day session of constant balloting before the maximum strength of William G. McAdoo and Governor Al Smith will be reached, thus convincing the Democratic convention that it is deadlocked and opening the way for breaks, was in prospect today after the 16th ballot had been completed without a nomination.

With changes here and there McAdoo polled 475 votes on the first ballot of this, the seventh day of the convention. Smith had 306 1-2. McAdoo's forces were sticking and his managers had enough votes left in the hole to enable him to show a majority before the day is over, according to their claims. The aim of the Smith managers is to show a one-third vote, thus convincing McAdoo they have him blocked.

Two [illegible] favorite sons went by the board on the first ballot today when New Hampshire dropped Governor Brown, for whom it had voted, and gave Smith four, McAdoo three and Walsh one. Mississippi [illegible] Pat Harrison and switched its 20 to Robinson of Arkansas, but that is not the ultimate destination of Mississippi's vote. It is understood Arkansas will switch to McAdoo when the McAdoo managers need those votes.

The result of the 16th ballot:

Total [illegible]; Smith, 306 1-2; McAdoo, 475; Cox, 60; John W. Davis, 63; Glass, [illegible]; Ralston, 31; Robinson, 46; Underwood, 41 1-2; Walsh, 1; Bryan, 11; Ritchie 17 1-2; Governor Davis, 10; Saulsbury, 6; Brown, 1; Copeland, [illegible].

SCOUTS IN FINAL WORKOUTS FOR BIG JULY FOURTH MEET

Boy Scout troops are holding their final practices and drills in preparation for the coming field meet on July Fourth. It will be a big event for the Scouts in this region and will determine the troop which will possess the Scout Council flag for the next year.

The field meet this year includes troops from Connellsville, Vanderbilt, Wheeler and Dunbar. The entrance of the neighboring troops into the meet has added new interest and there will be a big crowd present for it.

The meet will start at 10 o'clock in the morning, Scouts meeting at 9 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. to march in a body to the field. The list of events furnishes opportunity for demonstration of skill in athletics and also along lines strictly in conformity with Scouting.

There will be three neutral judges in charge. These will include scout executives from Westmoreland county, the Monongahela valley district and a Scout official from Uniontown. This will not be Scout Executive Witt as he was formerly a scoutmaster here.

With only today and tomorrow remaining in which to prepare for the meet all the troops are bustling. Practically all are holding special meetings in the evenings for this purpose and real competition will feature all events.

MARINES KILLED 3,000 HAITIANS, FRENCHMAN SAYS

Charge Laid Before International Federation of League of Nations.

SYMPATHY VOTED DOWN

By United Press.

LYONS, France July 1.—United States marines killed more than 3,000 peaceful Haitians, often by bombs dropped from airplanes upon villages where women and children perished, Dantes Bellegrade, former minister of public instruction, charged in winning a bitter fight to bring before the International Federation of League of Nations Societies the question of American military occupation of Haiti.

A preliminary fight on whether the subject should be introduced took place before the federation political commission, with delegates from 30 nations present. Many delegates feared that discussion of Haiti's appeal might increase hostilities from certain quarters toward the league and they endeavored to quash the resolution offered by Bellegrade expressing the federation's sympathy with Haiti.

Bellegrade won to the extent that the commission was held competent to discuss his resolution, but the proposal itself was defeated. Instead a resolution was adopted which noted Haiti's charges and expressed satisfaction with Secretary of States Hughes' recent declaration of the United States' intention to withdraw from Haiti as soon as such a move should be consistent with obligations already incurred.

ANTI-TETANUS SERUM STATIONS FOR THE FOURTH

HARRISBURG, July 1.—Preparations for the "old-fashioned" Fourth of July celebration were completed today when 13,500,000 units of tetanus antitoxin were distributed to health stations in every county of the state by the state health department.

Premature Independence Day celebrations have already taken an unusually large number of victims that Dr. Charles H. Miner, health secretary directed that the distribution of the antitoxin for tetanus be made larger than for several preceding years. Health authorities, while urging the safe and sane variety of celebration, nevertheless are preparing for long accident lists that have hitherto marred the Fourth of July celebrations in the counties where the use of fireworks is permitted.

The tetanus antitoxin, through the action of the health department, is made available to every physician and hospital in the state. The health stations which have received the tetanus antitoxin supply have been selected with a view to making the preventative serum accessible with the least possible delay to every person in the state. The serum is being distributed free of charge in the hope that it may be utilized to prevent victims of fireworks accidents from contracting the dread lockjaw.

In sending the antitoxin, Dr. Miner issued an appeal to the physicians to see that the preventative serum is administered soon after the accident. That procedure, he stated, would prevent an ordinary burn from resulting fatally.

"Tetanus or lockjaw," Dr. Miner stated, "is a disease which, next to rabies, is responsible for one of the most terrible deaths which man can die."

Stations where antitoxin can be secured are:

Fayette county—C. Roy Hetzel's, Connellsville; Williams Pharmacy, Fayette City; R. E. Springer, Uniontown.

Westmoreland county — Broadway Drug Company, Scottdale; Allen's Pharmacy, Youngwood.

Somerset county—W. L. Mills, Rockwood; J. S. Pickering, Somerset; P. B. Thomas, Meyersdale; Philson Collins, Meyersdale.

John W. Davis To the Front As "Dark Horse"

By United Press.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 1.—Real developments were in the making as balloting in the Democratic convention proceeded this afternoon.

After polling 122 votes on the 20th ballot, thus dashing out from the general group of dark horses, John W. Davis of West Virginia increased this by three on the 21st and was becoming a real factor in the convention.

Despite the fact that Nebraska dropped Charles W. Bryan, its favorite son, and gave enough votes to McAdoo to make him a gain of seven from that state, the Californian lost ground and polled only 420.

Both Smith and Davis floor workers sought to bring about a change in the Iowa delegation. They failed to swing a majority of this delegation, however, and the chairman announced that Iowa's vote would be cast as a unit for McAdoo for the time being.

In the meantime Ohio was getting restless. The Smith managers, Norman E. Mack and George Brennan of Illinois, held a conference and predicted that Smith would hold his own during the afternoon.

John W. Davis of West Virginia at this hour had risen to the point of being the most likely dark horse in the Democratic convention. Starting with 31 on the first ballot yesterday, Davis has shown small but consistent gains through every ballot until on the 20th he reached 122. This represented a doubling of his vote during the morning alone. He started the day with 60 votes on the 15th ballot.

On the 20th Missouri passed, caucused and then threw the delegation's 36 votes to Davis. This was not only a big boost for the West Virginian but it meant that McAdoo had lost his hold on that state. While Davis was gaining the fight between McAdoo and Smith was continuing ballot after ballot, with Smith at least holding but McAdoo falling off. The Californian started the day with 478 but had dropped to 432 on the 20th ballot. This is only half more than he had yesterday.

166 COUPLES ARE LICENSED DURING JUNE

Exactly 166 couples were licensed to wed during the month of June on licenses issued from the Fayette county court house by the clerk of the Orphans Court. This number is low for the month of brides and roses. During the same month last year there were more than 200 couples who procured the necessary papers to join them in the holy bonds. The number recorded for June is just about the run of the average month.

BROWNSVILLE BUS OWNER IS SHOT TO DEATH

Steel Bullet Fired From Hill Overlooking Home, Pierces Heart.

SEVERAL IN MURDER GANG

The body of James Davoli, wealthy operator of bus lines in the Brownsville-Fayette City-Perryopolis region, was found murdered this morning in an alley near his home at South Brownsville.

A steel-jacketed bullet had entered at the left nipple, pierced the heart and stomach and emerged from the hip. It had been fired from a hill overlooking the scene, officers said.

Bullet marks on the garage and other buildings nearby indicated that several persons had fired at the man, both steel and leaden ones being found.

Black-hand revenge is believed to have been at the bottom of the murder. Several months ago Davoli was shot and for some time was in a hospital.

Robbery was not the motive. In Davoli's pocket were found money and valuable papers which had not been disturbed.

Davoli was 37 years old. He operated five buses, one running to Perryopolis.

PARK AT FOURTH WARD SCHOOL SITE INVITES ATTENTION

Much favorable comment is being made upon the appearance of the park at the Fourth Ward school site, which the Civic League has had laid out and put in order by Joseph T. Johnston. Mr. Johnston has put both interest and energy into the work and the park promises to be a very attractive one.

The site of the Fourth Ward was abandoned by the Woman's Culture Club as a playground for children. Since the removal of the playground apparatus the lot has had a neglected appearance and the action of the Civic League in turning an ugly site into an attractive park has met with hearty public approval.

In order to protect the young shrubbery and new grass, a wire fence has been put around the entire park, but it will be retained only temporarily, as the league is anxious to have the park open for the children in the fall.

The shipment of shrubbery for the park was in possession of the Civic League two months before being set out, as the league did not, in any way, want to interfere with the children's use of the site as a playground.

The park committee of the Civic League believes that with the protection the fence affords, the park will be, in a short time, in readiness to be opened to the public. In any event, it will be open for the children's use when the public schools convene.

Council Adops Parking Revision

The amendment to the traffic ordinance, specifying certain streets on which parking of automobiles or other vehicles is prohibited, was adopted by Council Monday night.

While the amendment becomes effective today, Mayor Mitchell indicated he will be lenient at the start, or until all are thoroughly familiar with it. The minimum fine under the ordinance is $5 and the mayor hesitates to impose this before the prohibited areas are marked and the provisions of the measure better known.

Smith Forces May Attempt To Break McAdoo's Strength, Going to Underwood or Davis

Special Chair for Woman Delegate.

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, New York delegate to the National Democratic Convention and one of the foremost women political leaders in America, is a lady of ample proportions and a keen sense of humor. But when Miss Marbury saw the tiny, hard chairs placed in Madison Square Garden, New York City, for the delegates, she balked. Indeed, she had her own spacious, leather-covered chair carried into the Garden and made herself comfortable.

Lorain Buries Its Dead; Plans To Rebuild On BULLETIN.

LORAIN, Ohio, July 1.—The death list from the Lorain tornado rose to 94 today with the finding of nine additional bodies in the wreckage and a complete check-up of hospitals and morgues.

Workmen begun dynamiting the fallen walls of the concrete municipal bath houses in the belief that many bathers may have been caught inside when the storm wrecked the building.

LORAIN, Ohio, July 1.—Lorain buried its dead privately today, the 74 known victims of the storm of Saturday evening, while down in the ruined business section khaki-clad troops moved about. Where the State Theatre had stood a light steam shovel puffed as it scooped at the debris where more bodies may be found.

The smell of hot soup came from the rolling army kitchens while the Salvation Army maintained shelters and Red Cross dressing stations still found something to do today.

Lorain is not under martial law, according to Governor Donahey, for the local government is still functioning but has a bigger job than it can handle alone and the troops are helping out. Nine-tenths of the business district will have to be rebuilt. Nearly all the buildings left were so weakened by the tornado that they will have to be torn down.

The governor was to confer today with business men and state officials were to confer on some plan for rehabilitation and financiers from outside cities have been called to discuss plans for securing the needed capital which is estimated to be $25,000,000.

87 Admitted to Hospital in June

June was an exceptionally busy month at the Connellsville State Hospital. On June 1 there were 12 patients in the institution and at the close of the month 20 were being cared for. During the month 87 persons were admitted and 79 discharged.

Throat operations performed totalled 59. There were 26 major operations and 12 accident cases. Two accident cases were treated but not admitted. There were 11 "out" patients. There were no deaths at the hospital during June but one [illegible] was recorded.

Keen Strategy Being Played Preceding Breakup Which May Come Today.

ANYTHING MAY HAPPEN

Special Dispatch by David Lawrence
Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, July 1.—There is every indication that the Smith forces will attempt to break McAdoo's strength by throwing their votes either to Senator Underwood of Alabama or to John W. Davis of West Virginia. The chances of a victory for Davis appear brighter at the moment as he has a strong following in both the McAdoo and Smith camps.

But many things may happen before the breakup of either the McAdoo or Smith groups. The strategy being played today by the rival generals is intensely interesting as it combines all the tricks of previous conventions plus a certain amount of psychology that attends every break. No tactician can predict with accuracy what will be the result of any particular move. The plan today was for the McAdoo generals to watch the Smith leaders to see how much of the reserve strength of the New York governor is put into the line.

The Smith people have from 40 to 60 votes while McAdoo has about 82 more which he hopes to get before night-fall and then, having majority, the California candidate would stand before the convention just as did Clark at Baltimore in 1912, hoping the delegates will in effect disregard the two-thirds rule by giving him the remaining votes. Some of the things which may be expected before night appear to be as follows:

1—About 12 McAdoo delegates who have been voting for the former secretary of the treasury are really Smith men at heart and have been kept voting the way they have in order to provide a demonstration later on when they leave him and go to Smith.

2—Although Mississippi has complimented Senators Harrison, Robinson and Glass, her 20 votes are to go to McAdoo on later ballots. The Smith managers were trying early today to swing the votes to Davis and to hold them there so as to prevent McAdoo from getting a majority.

3—Tom Taggart is friendly enough to McAdoo to give him Indiana's 30 votes as a compliment when McAdoo approaches the majority mark.

4—Virginia, hoping for a reciprocal compliment from the McAdoo forces, later on may switch her 24 votes to McAdoo during today.

All this plus some strength in Ohio constitutes most of the McAdoo reserve. So long as Ohio sticks to Cox neither McAdoo nor Smith can benefit as the residuary votes in Ohio would not assist the Smith strategy but would tend to help McAdoo. In Illinois the 10 votes for Cox can be counted on ultimately to go to Smith. Louisiana plans to stay with John W. Davis for several ballots. It was the first state to join West Virginia.

Here and there are scattered votes for Davis but his biggest opportunity lies in the fact that he is second choice of scores of delegates and is looked upon as a logical compromise. The Smith managers are more or less under obligation to Underwood and may give him some of their votes in the hope of giving him a chance before the conventon, but the southern McAdoo states are not inclined to help Underwood because of his connection with the recent Klan controversy. So Underwood is not yet a probability.

The outcome appears to be dependent on whether the anti-McAdoo forces can now break the former secretary of the treasury with Underwood or Davis or both. The McAdoo people are showing friendliness to Glass of Virginia as their second choice but they are not yet in a mood to concede that their leader is going to be out of it.

"Tom Thumb Wedding" Pleases.

Three gatherings that packed the Christian Church to overflowing witnessed the "Tom Thumb Wedding" Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. Some were there for all three presentations.

Others in the bridal party were: Maid of honor, Lucy Enos; best man, Jack Porter; train bearer, Edith Mitchell, daughter of the mayor; bridesmaids, Margaret J. Porter, Marietta Metcalf, Mary Lou Otto, Naomi Bishop and Sarah Stauffer; flower girls, Ruth Thompson, Eloise Backus, Audrey Percy and Dolly Evans; page, Bobby Baer; ushers, Merle Gearhart, Charles Phillippi, Nevin Berkey, Joseph Angle, Benton Boyd and Thomas Enos. All were garbed in what fashion dictated for the period of the wedding, the male members in full dress suits. Every detail of a fashionable wedding was carried out, down to the feast at its close.

Preceding the ceremony, Anna May Charlesworth sang "O, Promise Me." During the dinner Eloise Rutter, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rutter of Curwensville, formerly of Connellsville, sang and gave readings.

Women Still Can Find Many Uses for Ammonia

More and more the woman of today is finding out that her grandmother was not far wrong in her claim that ammonia was useful for keeping the home a sweet, clean place, with little trouble and expense.

Ammonia reliably prepared has wonderful power to cleanse and make sanitary, yet it is simple and safe to use. It is a great help in dishwashing. It dissolves grease like magic, and makes glass and china fairly shine. And for generations, women have known the power in ammonia to make clothes whiter with less work.

Ammonia has definite fertilizing value. A few drops occasionally put in the water when watering plants will make them grow. It is a thorough remedy to rid the house of vermin and other pests. It is a water-softener, and may be used in the bath. It is fine too, for cleansing the tub.

Flood Causes Day's Delay in Funeral Out of Confluence

CONFLUENCE, July 1.—The burial of Alexander [illegible]nson, which was to have taken place Sunday, following the services at 9:30 A. M., was postponed until Monday at 1:30 P. M. on account of heavy rains of Saturday night. The water was over the roads in places making it impossible to reach the [illegible] Cemetery. The destruction of a foot bridge across the Casselman River was also another feature that entered into the matter. A [illegible] car on the Western Maryland Railroad was put at the service of the family and on it the remains were taken across the Western Maryland bridge where the hearse and automobiles to convey the remains and [illegible] to the cemetery could be u[illegible].

[illegible] Fijians [illegible] Walking Success

The [illegible] of the origin of the "fire walking" ceremony is that in the distant past a Fijian traveling in the bush met [illegible], whom he suspected of being an evil spirit, says the Detroit News.

The native captured this supernatural creature [illegible] threatened him. To save himself [illegible] offered as a gift any power [illegible] chose. The Fijian chose [illegible] granted the ability to handle or walk through fire unharmed, whatever has descended to members of the family even to this day.

The "fire walking" itself is an interesting ceremony performed by natives. So far as observers have been able to ascertain the performers walk barefoot and unharmed on stones which are virtually red hot, having been heated for hours in a fire pit. Afterward leaves, [illegible] and bits of wood are thrown over the rocks, the heat of the latter being evidenced by the smoke or flame which immediately bursts forth.

[illegible]'s Island

Pr[illegible] steamship trips are more popular than [illegible] and not a few are [illegible] which include a visit to [illegible] island, the traditional scene of Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe." Alexander Selkirk, it will be remembered, was marooned on this [illegible] four years, and his experiences probably suggested "Crusoe" to Defoe, but the author really put his hero ashore on an island near the mouth of the "great river Orinoco," which is separated by 30,000 miles of sea water from San Juan Fernandez.

Timely Reminders From

For the Garden—It is not too late to plant some lettuce for summer salads. All Seasons and Berlin Golden Yellow are varieties of head lettuce that will stand the summer heat. Many gardeners prefer leaf lettuce because it is easier to grow.

Poultry Parasites—Use disinfectants before the mites become too plentiful in the poultry buildings. Spray the quarters three times at about three day intervals. Many people use the drainings of the auto tank case for the roosts and dropping boards, and a finer material to spray the walls and nests. Clean the nests frequently during the summer months.

Water for Dairy Cows—One hundred pounds of average milk contains about 87 pounds of water. The dairy cow's water supply, therefore, demands the dairyman's most careful attention. Cows giving milk drink about four times as much water as dry cows. High producing cows sometimes drink from 200 to 300 pounds of water a day. See that your herd is supplied with plenty of pure, fresh water this summer.

The Corn Situation—Due to the wet, cold spring, corn is from two to three weeks behind and many of the fields are likely to have a poor stand. If your stand is 60 per cent or better, it is probably not advisable to replant. There is no crop which can replace it at this time that will pay out any better. What may seem to be a poor stand now may be found to be a sufficient stand when the corn is fully developed. Good warm weather from now on and a late fall may still mature a good corn crop.

CREDIT DUE COOLIDGE, NOT WALSH.

It was not surprising that Senator "Pat" Harrison, the vitriolic "keynoter" of the Democratic convention, took occasion to dramatically announce the indictment of Former Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, E. L. Doheny and the latter's son, on charges in connection with the leasing of naval oil reserves.

With the same effrontery with which Harrison claimed that Republicans are guilty of all offenses under the statutes and moral laws, and Democrats are innocent as babes of all wrong-doing, he gave to Senator Walsh and his Democratic co-investigators all the credit for having haled these alleged miscreants into court and with having secured their indictment by a special federal grand jury.

By Harrison and Democratic newspapers the fact will be lost to sight that the indictment is the direct result of the determination of President Coolidge, through his explicit orders to the Department of Justice, to bring to account those alleged to be guilty of criminal acts in connection with the oil leases as well as all other matters in which officials of the government have been involved.

With the same disregard of the facts no mention will be made in the Democratic convention or by the organs of the party of the absolute refusal of the Democrats in Congress, or elsewhere, to back up any movement having for its object the indictment of a single one of the army of the war-time grafters or others who profitably farmed out their connection with the federal government during the last Democratic administration. Having effectively drawn a red herring across the trail that would lead to a prosecution of any of these malefactors, the Democrats are emboldened to declare in convention and elsewhere that the members of their party are alone angels of light and leading, incapable of wrong doing of any kind, least of all when functioning in places of power and influence in the federal government.

With equal obstinacy will the special pleaders in Madison Square Garden refuse to admit that the calm and unafraid occupant of the White House is showing that degree and kind of courage which is daily strengthening him in the confidence of the people as the safest person with whom to entrust the affairs of government for four more years from March 4 next.

To Coolidge's courage, not to Walsh's partisanship, is due the credit for the indictment in the oil cases.

FAULT WITH DRIVERS, NOT THE HIGHWAY.

That the larger number of fatal and non-fatal accidents on the highways of the state take place on straight sections, instead of at curves, continues to be a reproach upon the drivers of motor vehicles.

In the month of May 120 accidents were reported on the highways, exclusive of those taking place within the limits of the cities of the state. Sixty-seven, or over one-half of these accidents, occurred on straight road, 21 on light curves and 15 on sharp curves. Twenty-two took place on light grades and only three on heavy grades.

The record shows very conclusively that when traveling over those sections of road generally regarded as the safest drivers will neglect taking the same precautions they exercise in negotiating curves and other places where the dangers are more apparent and where prudence prompts them to be careful. Out on the straight stretches they are disposed to "step on the gas," to make up for time lost by reduced speed on sharp curves and heavy grades, and in doing so they increase the hazards many fold. If some defect develops in their own or another driver's car, a collision, sidewipe or ditching occurs, the consequences of which are made serious in proportion to the speed at which the cars are being driven.

The fault lies with the drivers, not with the physical features of the highway.

NEW TRAFFIC RULES.

The inauguration of the new traffic ordinance will be attended with some confusion for a few days, as is to be expected. The driving public is not yet fully informed upon the details of the new rules and many will no doubt unwittingly commit some offenses.

It will be the duty of the police under the circumstances to exercise all the patience necessary to a correct understanding of the changes on the part of automobile drivers. While the changes are all believed to be for the better, in the matter of relieving congestion and improving parking conditions, it will take some time for drivers to become so familiar with the new regulations that they will observe them as a matter of course.

On the part of drivers they, too, should exercise the virtues of patience and common sense and realize that the police are doing all they can to make the situation easy for everybody.

Quite naturally, of course, some Democratic editors refuse to see the difference between the attitude of the Cleveland and the New York conventions on the Klan issue. The former refused to take the claims of the hooded order seriously, or to act as publicity agent for it. The latter not only did both, but by solemn vote welcomed it to the ranks of Democracy in the hope of catching votes at the November election. This was done, notwithstanding some of these same Democratic editors at home are violent opponents of the Klan and at the convention of their party were willing to extend to it a glad, brotherly welcome.

It is no discredit to the town or to the men themselves to note that Connellsville has recently sent two good citizens to the Western Penitentiary to serve as experienced and well qualified instructors in special lines of work among the inmates.

The discretion, sound common sense and their brevity and aptness in speech-making at the Democratic convention better qualify many of the women delegates as candidates for the vice presidency than some of the windy males.

Coast to Coast Air Mail Service

By WILLIAM J. McEVOY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—At dawn tomorrow an airplane, laden with mail, will hop up from the earth beside San Francisco Bay, to wing its way toward the sunrise; four hours later, a similarly burden flyer will skim down a field on Long Island, rise to hover over Manhattan for a moment and fling itself headlong into the west.

Thus will be inaugurated the first through, trans-continental, coast-to-coast, continuous air mail service, for which the Postoffice Department has been priming and pointing for years.

Every day from tomorrow on, at 6 A. M. at San Francisco and 10 A. M. at New York, the air mail planes will take the air bearing the burden of communications destined from one coast to another. The Air Mail delivery is on.

Will Fly by Night.

Night will hold no terrors for the air mail flyers, just as the pony express of years ago stopped not a bit for Indians, fires or floods. Night flying will be a considerable part of the new service for the schedule call for 32 hours and 5 minutes of continuous flying on the eastbound mail, and 34 hours and 45 minutes on the westward trip.

Gigantic beacons of hundreds of millions of candlepower casting their beams 100 to 150 miles have been installed at the principal night flight points while "safety zones" near to the twilight zone stations have been studded with smaller beacons. These are to guide flyers who may find darkness overtaking them some distance from the brilliantly lighted stations and need some guide to lead them to the landing field.

The departure hours at each end of the flight have been carefully chosen to meet the conditions of fog. The planes will start at 6 o'clock at San Francisco, because later in the morning, usually about 10, a thick blanket of fog drops down on the bay. The situation at New York is usually the contrary; the fog lies heavily over everything in the early morning, until dispelled by the warmth of the sun.

Into Three Zones.

The 2,600 mile span of the continent has been divided into three zones for the daily flight—New York to Chicago, Chicago to Cheyenne, Wyo., and Cheyenne to San Francisco.

Special air mail postage has been arranged for the service and stamps in denominations of 8, 16 and 24 cents have been printed and distributed to all postoffices along the route as well as the principal cities adjacent to the "air pathway."

An 8-cent stamp will carry an ounce letter anywhere within one of these zones, while it will require a 16-cent stamp to carry such a letter into the second one, and a 24-cent stamp into the third zone.

Letters originated at, or destined to, points off the air route will not require additional postage. Air mail postage will be honored for travel by train as well as by air.

To expedite the gathering of air mail, special boxes are being installed in the larger cities along the route.

No attempt will be made by postoffice "aces" to set speed records in dispatching mails across the continent.

Will Be Safely First.

"Safety of the pilots and safe handling of the mails," Postmaster General New said, "will be the prime requisites."

Bids for new planes with slower landing devices in order to protect the flyers and prevent mishaps have been received by the department and a contract for a fleet of new "birds" soon will be made. With these planes it is hoped to cut the flying time to 24 hours.

The lighting system along the route has been kept in perfect maintenance and no delay will be occasioned in reconditioning the system. The night route from Chicago to Cheyenne is lighted with automatic acetylene lights every three miles, while at every 25 miles an emergency landing field is located and flooded with a revolving searchlight. At intervals of approximately 250 miles are the regular landing fields equipped with revolving searchlight beacons of 500,000,000 candle-power.

The "safety areas", extending from Cheyenne to Rock Springs, Wyo., and from Chicago to Cleveland have been sufficiently lighted to guard against the possibility of delayed planes being overtaken by darkness before reaching the regular lighted airway.

The department anticipates some delays in startings because of fog "clouds" and mechanical failures, but Paul Henderson, second assistant postmaster general, in charge of the air mail service, is confident that operations will be carried on efficiently and with regularity.

"Our record of 95 per cent perfect, achieved over the past two years," Henderson said, "will make a high record for the new service to shoot at."

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

UNINSTRUCTED.

"I'm going to send you down to earth,"
Said God to me one day.
"I'm giving you what men call 'birth'—
Tonight you'll start away;
I want you there to live with men
Until I call you back again."

I trembled as I heard Him speak,
Yet know that I must go;
I felt His hand upon my cheek,
And wished that I might know
Just what on earth would be my task,
And timidly I dared to ask.

"Tell me before I start away
What Thou would have me do;
What message would Thou have me say,
When shall my work be through?
That I may serve Thee on the earth,
Tell me the purpose of my birth."

God smiled at me and softly said:
"Oh, you shall find your task.
I want you free life's paths to tread,
So do not stay to ask,
Remember, if your best you do,
That I shall ask no more of you."

How often as my work I do,
So commonplace and grim,
I sit and sigh and wish I knew
If I am pleasing Him.
I wonder if, with every test,
I've truly tried to do my best.

NEW BUICK SIX, THE "STANDARD," ENTERS FIELD

Is on Entirely New Chassis and Is Capable of Speed of 70 Miles an Hour.

IN EIGHT BODY MODELS

The attention of automobile circles will be centered [illegible] on a new Buick, six-cylinder car, [illegible] entirely new chassis, and [illegible] eight body models. Mechanically it is essentially the same as the present Buick car, and is capable of a speed of 70 miles per hour.

The new Six is designated the "Standard Six" and has a wheel base of 114 3-8 inches. It has a valve-in-head engine similar to the engine now in use in the other models. Four-wheel brakes and low-pressure tires.

The chassis shows advanced ideas in numerous new details of simplicity and accessibility. Among the body models will be a five-passenger touring; the same with an enclosed body and heater, a two-passenger Roadster; the same with a collapsible top and heater; a five-passenger [illegible]-service sedan; a five-passenger [illegible]-service coupe; a five-passenger [illegible]an; and a four-passenger coupe. A permanent top which can be [illegible]d with the open models are of [illegible] and are [illegible]ted tightly to the [illegible].

The engine is [illegible]ve-in-head type with automatic [illegible]cation throughout and with the cylinder head removable. The [illegible] and transmission form integral parts of the engine which is suspended at three points from the main [illegible]. The crank shaft is a drop-forging [illegible]ra heavy and balanced with four [illegible]e bearings. The pistons and connecting rods are properly weighted and carefully manufactured. Large [illegible] are operated by noiseless, adjustable push rods through rocker [illegible] which are automatically lubricated from the engine. This motor produces fifty actual brake horsepower.

It has pressure lubrication to the crankshaft, connecting rod bearings, also the camshaft and pump gears. The pump is of gear type, positive [illegible] located on the right side of the engine, and driven by worm on the center of the camshaft. It has a maximum pressure of 50 pounds regulated by relief valve. Pump oil screen reinforced to prevent collapsing. Pistons, cylinder walls, cams, rods and the other three camshaft bearings lubricated by mist of oil at [illegible] oil capacity 4½ quarts. Fan automatically lubricated from reservoir [illegible]ub. Water cooling is by centrifugal pump operated from the camshaft by [illegible]rical gears. Harrison cellular radiator is employed.

Control is by means of short shaft and throttle levers in the center of steering [illegible], which is friction-retained. There is a [illegible] type foot accelerator with rest. The [illegible]ch pedal is easily operated. Long [illegible]verage brake pedal and starter pedal conveniently located. Gear shift and emergency brake levers are conveniently to the right hand.

The carburetor is the improved automatic [illegible] type, supplied by vacuum system from the gasoline tank mounted on the rear of the frame. Automatic heat control insures proper vaporization at all speeds. The air regulator and [illegible]ontrol buttons are on the instrument [illegible].

Ignition is supplied by the high tension jump spark system, the current being supplied by storage battery and Delco electric [illegible]erator. The spark advances automatically. The starter is a complete [illegible] single-unit system for starting, [illegible]ting and lighting, built as an [illegible] part of the engine and operating in connection with the large [illegible]ge battery. Combination switch [illegible]h manual and automatic control [illegible]ator is found on the instrument [illegible].

The clutch is [illegible] dry plate, requiring slight pressure to operate. It is [illegible] in engagement and very [illegible] in action and the effort is [illegible] simple.

The transmission [illegible] the selective sliding gear type [illegible] three speeds forward and one reverse. The gears are special and heat-treated. There is positive interlocking [illegible] control so easy to operate that [illegible] can be shifted with the [illegible] of the fingers.

Through single [illegible] large, improved, automatically lubricated universal joints and fully [illegible] propeller shaft housing [illegible] rigidly with the rear end of the transmission by ball joints enclosed [illegible] universal. Strut rods from the [illegible] end of the propeller shaft housing to the axle housing keep them in perfect alignment. Both torque and [illegible] are taken through ball joints.

The rear axle is the three-quarter floating type which [illegible] that all the weight of the car is taken on axle tubes and only [illegible] torque is taken by axle shafts. The differential is mounted on [illegible] ball bearings. Pinion shaft on [illegible] large ball bearings, rear wheels [illegible] Hyatt roller bearings. Spiral [illegible] gears are fully adjustable.

The service [illegible] are Buick type, external contracting, operating on drums of [illegible]e and area on all four wheels. The equalizer insures proper distribution of pressure to front and rear [illegible]. They are easily adjusted for wear with adjusting [illegible]. Hand brake is of internal expanding type operating on rear wheel brake drums only.

The wheels are of artillery type [illegible] hub [illegible]. Tires are [illegible]

Defies Age by Using Ordinary Buttermilk to Beautify Complexion

This Pretty Girl Tells Druggists Not to Take Anyone's Money Unless This Delightful New Vanishing Cream Shows a Decided Improvement.

Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dullest, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.—Advertisement.

Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus Is Greeted By Ideal Weather

Bright and early this morning the big Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus arrived in Connellsville and hundreds of eager circus fans lined the Pennsylvania tracks to watch the unloading process. And they were well repaid for their trouble as it was an interesting sight to see the big wagons rolled from the flat cars and started on their way to Fayette Field, where two performances will be given today.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the Hagenbeck-Wallace parade started on its route through the principal streets of the city, and after watching wagon load after wagon load of all kinds of animals, beautiful horses, cowboys and cowgirls, a score of bands, including a clown jazz band, and colored jazz band—it could be readily seen that this circus is well justified in claiming the largest parade in the world. It took twenty-five minutes for the line of march to pass a given point.

Hagenbeck-Wallace has always been noted for its animals and this year is no exception as a remarkable collection of animals can be found in the large menagerie. Joe, the man slaying baboon is said to be one of the foremost specimens of his kind in captivity. The Zoological Garden at Washington, D. C., has put in a claim for Joe and at the conclusion of this season, the animal will be shipped to the government authorities for study.

Heading the long and elaborate program of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus are the lion and tiger acts. John Heliott with his superb collection of 12 Nubian lions, repeatedly thrills the audience with his absolute disregard of fear in putting these animals through their tricks.

Bob McPherson also has a breath-taking number in the tiger act. Once this season, McPherson was attacked by one of his animals and he is still wearing the bandages from that occasion.

Hundreds of other features are on this program and special attention has been given the clowns. A flock of these merry fellows, constantly swarm out on the arena and with many new tricks, help garner the coveted laughs.

Both of the side shows with Hagenbeck-Wallace are noted for their cleanness and for the strangeness of the freaks presented. Jim Tarver, the world's largest man can be seen in the number one side show, while Joe, the baboon is on exhibition in the other.

After announcement had been given to the newspapers of the route of the circus parade a change was made which cut out the South Side. The original announcement did not include the West Side.

MURDER OF DEPUTY STIRS ALL ITALY

[illegible]

Despite rigid censorship, it is leaking out that all Italy is in an uproar over the kidnaping of Deputy Giacomo Matteotti, multi-millionaire Socialist, who was slain by members of the Fascisti while on his way to Parliament in Rome to expose corruption in the Mussolini Cabinet. The automobile standing before Matteotti's mansion is on the exact spot where the kidnapers bundled him into their car and fled. Commendatore Caesar Rossi, chief of Premier Mussolini's press bureau, is charged with giving orders to have Matteotti killed. Commendatore Filippelli, prominent member of the Fascisti, is also under arrest for participation in the murder.

House Dress Made for General Wear

Modern Garment Is More Efficient Than "Wrapper" of Long Ago.

Almost unrecognizable as the descendant of the old-fashioned "wrapper," the modern house dress has a place all its own among the "ready-to-wears," notes a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star.

But the house dress of today—or, as it is sometimes called, the bungalow apron, the porch dress, the wash dress or the tub dress—is not only more appealing to the eye than the staid old wrapper was; it's much more efficient, too. A "wrapper" which was just what the name implies, something a woman wrapped about her any old way, admittedly had no esthetic value; and it wasn't even utilitarian, for it was sloppy, cumbersome and awkward. The house dress, on the other hand, is not only comfortable and becoming, but fashionable and economical as well.

Since a house dress is made primarily for service, it is well to select a good one that will keep its shape, and will not fade when it is laundered. Gingham is probably the favorite material, for time has shown it to be durable and washable, as well as decidedly wearable. It comes in such a wide variety of colors, both soft and brilliant, and in so many patterns, that you are sure to be able to find what you want.

Apron gingham is a cheap grade suitable for aprons, and sometimes used for house dresses. It is rather loosely woven, and is likely to shrink badly when washed. Domestic ginghams are similar to apron ginghams, of about the same price, and are suitable for house dresses. French gingham and zephyr gingham are better grades.

Tissues and voiles are other popular house dress materials and of late sateen has been much used. It is one of the most charming house dress materials, for it is soft and feminine, as well as inexpensive, and it lends itself well to the little individual touches of embroidery or other handwork which give the plainest frock individuality.

Colors in general are best when bright and cheery. They should, however, be becoming.

Style as well as color and material plays an important part in the house dress. The one-piece slip-on styles are most practical, since they are both easy to put on and easy to launder and iron. But garments need not look "housedressy" just because they are made in this simple style. As a matter of fact, many women go "down town" in their house dresses nowadays, and feel well dressed.

White Popular for Chic Duds for Summer Wear

White has indeed come into its own and some of the most fascinating clothes for summer wear are made entirely of white—white wool coats with ermine collars or neckties of white fox, simple little frocks of crepe de chine and knitted dresses or the one-piece and sweater. An unusual sport coat seen recently was of white wool knitted in fancy stripes that went horizontally across the short garment. The collar and cuffs and bottom of the coat were edged with a wide border of hooked white wool.

Wear Initials on Shoes

Girls, don't wear your heart on your sleeve, put your initial on your shoes. That's the latest fad to lay siege to London and Paris, and which is just being introduced to America. The initials are large, usually plain, of silver, gold, or enamel.

Points to Be Followed When Choosing Dress

If you are short and fat you won't wear big plaids and Peter Pan collars, or if you have one of those tall, willowy figures, praised by the poets, you you will avoid stripes running up and down, says a writer in the Kansas City Star.

The four things to remember when selecting a design from a fashion book, are the person for whom the dress is intended, the occasion, the general principles in design and the elements of composition.

If you are fat you will not select what some friend of yours who weighs fifty pounds less would choose. Study yourself carefully, keeping your age in mind, and determine whether or not the fashion which you select will be appropriate for its need. Do not be charmed into selecting a flowing dinner gown when you are in need of a simple serge for everyday wear. To dress to suit the occasion is one of the essentials of being well dressed.

Proportion is one of the first principles of dress design. Get the right balance, especially at the waistline. You can easily see that if a dress is shortwaisted it will increase height in a most unbecoming and awkward way, and that a dress with a waistline at the opposite extreme will make you look top-heavy. As for the dominant interest in a dress, or that which attracts your attention, it is best to keep to simple things and not confuse them. Why any woman would applique morning glories on a plaid morning dress one cannot understand, but some do, and think it is pretty.

be left around the monogram. Turn in an eighth of an inch edge. Baste it in one of the corners of the handkerchief. Draw the threads and hemstitch the monogram to the handkerchief. If you prefer, the hem may be made of white also. A handkerchief of this kind looks very smart with the tailored suit.—Kansas City Star.

Fashionable Jewelry Is of Brilliant Color

This is a glittering year for the evening mode. Never were dresses more gorgeous nor materials more elaborate, and jewelry, responsive as always to the mood of costume, matches this splendor by becoming more colorful.

Nowhere is this tendency more clearly shown than in the wearing of jeweled accessories, which are demanded by the women of fashion to accent her personality and complete the theme of her costume. There are bandeaux, combs, belts, buckles and fans studded with jewels. Jewels also stud the vanity case, the opera glass and the purse affected at the opera and theater.

The jeweled girdle is most effective in adding a note of distinction and elegance to the straight-line evening dress. A new girdle from Cartier, which conforms to the latest fashion in gowns, is composed of a narrow band of tissue pearls with a carved jade center.

"FORGIVE AND FORGET," featuring an all star cast, provides splendid entertainment today at the Paramount. In this production it is a young wife who thinks that her life is hers and that if she flirts a little, is just a tiny bit indiscreet, gets herself whispered about here and there—it is only to herself that she must answer. And then, like a bolt from a clear sky, comes the crushing result of the actions she thought were "nobody's business—just a little harmless fun."

Into the deluge are drawn her pretty young sister, that sister's fiancee, her own husband, her friends, everything that she holds dear. Life tumbles about her ears, and in its ruins are her husband's arrest for a crime he did not commit, the ashes of her own reputation and happiness. And it is when she realizes that she owes a debt to society, that she is not only an individual but a member of a great social patchwork as well, that she sees the solution. Estelle Taylor, Pauline Garon, Wyndham Standing, Josef Swickard, Philo McCullough, Raymond McKee, Vernon Steele, and Lionel Belmore make this literally an "all-star cast."

Wednesday and Thursday, "Mind Over Motor," will be shown.

The Soisson

"THE KING OF WILD ANIMALS"—On view today and tomorrow at the Soisson, features one of the most magnificent animals that ever enacted a drama of love and hate—of loyalty and devotion.

The story commences with the efforts of a cowbody (played by Leon Bary) to capture this magnificent creature of the wilds. He glories in pitting his man's skill against the horse's cunning. Days and days the cowboy keeps on his trail, pursuing him tirelessly, relentlessly, until at last, in The Black's unruly heart, there stirs a sense of respect, almost admiration, for his pursuer—but still he runs away!

Then comes the forest fire—stifling smoke, roaring flames, crackling underbrush, terrific heat! And fear, for a horse fears nothing so much as fire. It overcomes his fear of the man, who now seeks, not to capture the wonderful creature, but to save him.

These forest fire scenes, taken during the conflagration that devastated thousands of acres of California timberland, promises to be spectacular as well as sensational. In addition to Leon Bary the cast includes Edna Murphy, Charles Parrott, Pat Hartigan and Sidney De Grey. Fred Jackson directed.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Berty Blythe will be seen in "Sinner or Saint."

The Orpheum

"HER TEMPORARY HUSBAND," with Owen Moore appearing in an interesting role, is on view today and Wednesday at the Orpheum.

"Her Temporary Husband" is an excrutiatingly humorous comedy, centering about a young girl, who, to win a fortune, is forced to marry within 24 hours.

The girl not wishing to burden herself with the troubles and tribulations of matrimony, yet wishing to win the legacy, goes to a sanitarium and chooses as a husband a decrepit old man with one foot in the grave and the other on a banana skin, to later wake up to the realization that the man she really married was a young admirer who had made up to represent the older man.

Owen Moore plays the part of the disguised invalid. Sidney Chaplin enacts the role of his valet, a lugubrious individual who has a peculiar faculty of always doing the right thing at the wrong time.

Sidney is a member of an exceptionally talented all-star cast, which includes Owen Moore, Sidney Chaplin, Sylvia Breamer, Chuck Reisner, Tully Marshall, Charles Gerrard, George Cooper and others.

Tom Mix will be seen in "Mile-A-Minute Romeo" Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Capstan Whitewashes Divada Club at Fayette Field; Home Run By Jones Starts Scoring

Tough Valley Aggregation Gets Five Hits But All Are Well Scattered.

MOORMAN IS EFFECTIVE

For the first time in six years has any amateur baseball club representing the Tough Valley district stared at a goose egg before their score board as did the Divada Independents last evening when "Jeff" Moorman, twirling on the mound for the Capstan Glass Independents, whitewashed the tri-town team by a 3 to 0 score at Fayette Field in one of the best played games of the year. Baseball fans who witnessed yesterday's tilt claim it was comparable with "big league baseball." Brilliant fielding by both teams played an important part in the game.

Hits were as scarce as Eskimos at the equator; both moundsmen being so "stingy" they could squeeze blood out of a turnip. "Jeff" Moorman proved to be "selfish," liberating but five safe blows to the Divadarenes, while "Bill" Addis took pity and gave eight safe swats. Jones, Capstan's third sacker, always breaks things up when everything is going along smoothly and he swatted out a homer in the second inning. The ball went over the centerfielder's head and rolled to the extreme corner of the fence. He was home before the ball got to the infield.

Moorman and Addis engaged in a pitcher's duel, with the former taking the edge. "Bill" gave excellent account of himself against his former team mates, whiffing eight and giving but eight hits. He walked twice, Moorman being unable to put them over with "Bill" before the pan. "Bill" is reputed to be a "waiter."

Capstan's first tally came in the second inning when Jones got his homer. In the third inning, Moorman singled, went second on "Pep" Francis' sacrifice hit and scored on Ralston's single to right. No more scoring was done until the ninth inning. Newell dropped E. Clawson's high fly and was safe. He advanced on Ridge's sacrifice hit and rested there while J. Sohonage threw Moorman out. Chip Francis, who had relieved, "Pep", came through with a single to right field and E. Clawson tallied. That was the end of the scoring.

The game was hard played throughout and at no stage was either team safe. "Pep" Francis saved the day for Moorman in the third inning by making a spectacular catch of Newell's long liner with three on the paths and two out. Addis walked and went to second on McLaughlin's single. Miller was safe when Dunlaw fumbled his grounder. Then "Pep" saved the game for Moorman with his catch. Steve Sohonage batted for Black in the seventh and singled but the necessary punch at the right time was lacking. Durbin hit a double in the fourth with one out, but the other two outs were easy. Miller hit a double in the eighth but tried to stretch it into a triple and was thrown out. Newell followed with a single.

Baseball fans in Connellsville have been missing some real games in the past few days. South Connellsville is the scene of many good ball games, the Capstan outfit boasting of one of the best amateur teams in Western Pennsylvania. The two games at Fayette Field were excellent exhibitions of baseball.

Capstan Glass Independents are playing at Kennywood Park today, but will play at home tomorrow. "Rube" Alexander, the strike-out king from Leisenring, who has already turned in 16 victories and one tie game without a defeat has been signed by the team. He is to twirl today.

The Divada Independents are playing at Trotter this evening, and Trotter will play at the Dickerson Run grounds tomorrow afternoon, in inaugurating the half-holiday at Vanderbilt.

The Divada team is the first team from Tough Valley to be whitewashed in six years. The Vanderbilt Athletic Club in 1913 suffered a 7-0 defeat at the hands of Revere, and since then no team has been able to throw a goose egg before the teams there.

LAYTON CLUB WINS OVER OWENSDALE IN CLOSE GAME

Playing errorless ball behind the excellent pitching by Stauffer, Layton nosed out Owensdale in a hard-fought game at Owensdale Saturday evening by a score of 2 to 1. Stauffer won the pitchers' duel from Barnhart. He whiffed 14 batsmen, Barnhart 10. The former passed one batsman, while the latter pitched air-tight ball. Layton touched Barnhart for five safe swats, while Owensdale garnered four off Stauffer.

The Layton team has been uprooting everything in its path for the past few weeks and some strong teams have bowed before it. Teams desiring to meet the Layton team are requested to call Dawson 88, ring 4 on the Bell phone.

SCOTTDALE TEAM WILL PLAY IN UNIONTOWN TOMORROW AFTERNOON

SCOTTDALE, July 1.—The Scottdale Independents, who had arranged an attractive home schedule for Old Home Week, June 30 to July 5, inclusive, have been forced to make some rearrangements of the booking because of the final decision recently given to have one big day, July 4, of the Old Home Week instead of devoting six days to the celebration, which it had been found inadvisable because of the effect upon the industries.

The game with Uniontown, on Wednesday, July 3, has been transferred to Elks Field, Uniontown, on the same date; the Elks to make their first appearance at Scottdale on Saturday, August 9. On July 3, Scottdale will play at Homewood, staging a contest with the Tresers, game starting at 6:30, fast time. Carl Stewart will oppose Brown. This will mark the Independents' first invasion of Pittsburg territory in three years and the game will be watched with interest, since the Tresers have been running like wild fire and recently defeated West Newton in a one sided game, driving Westerwick, the former Scottdale ace, who performed for West Newton, out of the box.

On July 4, East Liverpool, which has to its credit victories over Beaver Falls Elks and Harmarville Consumers, will be faced in a double bill here. On July 5 Bellevue will play at Scottdale, the first of a two-game series.

Of Interest to Fans.

Uniontown and Scottdale will clash again on Wednesday in the second game of a series between the two towns. In the first game Uniontown, with a batting rally in the ninth frame, won by a nose and both teams are preparing for tomorrow's duel.

Just who the pitching selection will be is hard to say. It is understood Scottdale will be using Leo Carroll, the former ace of the Connellsville Independents. Yet, countryseat adherents claim the Mill Towners have a dark horse under cover to spring against them.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES.

Scene on a United States Rubber Company Plantation in the Far East. After the rubber trees are tapped the latex is brought in cans to these Field Stations and weighed.

United States Tires are the only tires in the world made of cords solutioned in raw rubber latex.

The Beginning of Better Tire Service

WHEN the U. S. Rubber Engineers discovered that raw rubber latex in its natural state was a better tire material than the old bulk form of crude rubber it marked the beginning of better tire service.

U. S. Royal Cords built of cords solutioned in raw rubber latex have now been in use over three years. These tires have shown remarkable strength and wearing quality.

The use of latex in tire building is commercially possible because of three things:

1—The processes and equipment for using latex developed by the United States Rubber Company.

2—The discovery of a method of shipping latex to this country by the U. S. Rubber Engineers.

3—The development of the U. S. Rubber Plantation in the Far East providing an unfailing source of supply of latex of a peculiarly uniform quality especially adapted for tire building.

The latex treatment is particularly valuable in the building of low air-pressure flexible side-wall Balloon and Balloon-Type Tires.

WALLOONS FIRST AMONG SETTLERS

Refugees Landed on Manhattan in 1623 and Named Place "New Avesnes."

Washington, D. C.—To the question "What is a Walloon?" that arises from the issuance by the United States of a special Huguenot-Walloon-New Netherlands Tercentenary postage stamp and coin and the holding of New York's New Netherlands celebration, one answer might be "half a Belgian," according to a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The name 'Walloon,'" says the bulletin, "is little known on this side of the Atlantic, even less so than 'Fleming,' because both have been merged in the national name, 'Belgian.' It is a fact, however, that instead of the Belgians having racial unity they consist of two peoples approximately equally divided, speaking languages differing almost as widely as Swedish and Spanish. But though racially and linguistically the Belgians make up a sort of a house divided against itself, politically and religiously they constitute as staunch a national entity as does French-German-Italian-speaking Switzerland, and they have stood together through the centuries under various rulers.

Speak French Language.

"The Walloons may be said to form the French-speaking half of Belgium for though a very few in out-of-the-way districts know only the French-like old Walloon language, modern French has replaced that speech for the vast majority of the Walloons. The other half of the Belgian partnership is made up by the Flemings whose speech, Flemish, differs very little from Dutch. The Catholic people of Flanders, however, have been divided from their kinsmen, the Protestant Dutch, by a religious gulf for hundreds of years, and prefer to cleave to their fellow religionists, the Walloons.

"An almost straight line can be traced on the surface of Belgium separating the Walloons from the Flemings. It runs from Aix-la-Chapelle, just inside the German border, westward to strike the French boundary a short distance southeast of Ypres.

"To this line the old Walloons—the Belgae of Julius Caesar—were pressed by the southward faring Teutons who took possession of and cultivated the plains and swamps of Northern Belgium. These immigrant Teutons, from whom the Flemish people sprang, did not penetrate the forest country, and there the Walloons remained entrenched. Save for isolated groves the forest has disappeared today, giving place to mines, factories, farms and gardens; but the Flemish-Walloon racial line is almost as sharply marked as it was fourteen hundred years ago.

"The Walloons in their native land today are practically all Catholics; but there were religious differences among them in the Seventeenth century, and it was fugitive Protestant Walloons who played a prominent part in peopling America. While the Spanish were endeavoring to root out heresy in the Netherlands, hundreds of thousands of both Walloons and Flemings fled to the newly set up Protestant Dutch republic, just as some of the Pilgrim fathers fled there from England. It was Walloons from among these fugitives who, like the Pilgrims and French Huguenots, emigrated to America.

When New York Was "New Avesnes"

"In the first ship sent to the present territory of the United States by the Dutch West India company, the New Netherland, which landed in the Hudson river in 1623, Walloons led by Jesse de Forest were passengers. The eight families left on Manhattan, which was named 'New Avesnes,' constituted the first settlement of that now famous and valuable island, and the first homemakers, in fact, in the Middle states. The next and succeeding years brought more Dutch than Walloon immigrants, and though the latter played important parts in the new land they were eventually swallowed up in the Dutch and Huguenot communities just as New Avesnes was swallowed up by New Amsterdam.

"Since they came into existence from a merging of the old Gallic Belgae and the Romans, the Walloons have given leaders to important historical movements. Charlemagne and Charles Martel may be considered among the original Walloons.

"As a people the Walloons have also been leaders. The revolution of 1830 which separated the Belgians from their temporary connection with Holland was led largely by the Walloons. The new Belgium, then set up, was begun as a French-speaking country. Recognition of the claims of the Flemings since, however, has brought about the passage of laws placing the two languages on an equal footing.

"Ypres, one of the earliest Belgian towns to suffer from the German invasion during the World war, is the center of Walloon or 'the Walloon country,' as the French-speaking portion of Belgium is termed."

"Uncle Turpy stopped me in the big road as I was coming home from town yesterday, and I beat him out of a dollar, slick and clean!" related Gabe Diggins of Slippery Slap.

"How'd you do that?" asked an acquaintance.

NEW UNIVERSE IS SEEN IN HARVARD PHOTOGRAPHS

Faint Haze in Sagittarius May Prove That Heavens Are Formed From Ice.

Washington.—Government scientists identified with glacial research work in Glacier National park are showing interest in the new theory developed by the Viennese scientist, Dr. Hans Hoerbiger, that glacial cosmogony "explains" the origin of the heavens.

This idea, that ice is the building material with which new universes are constantly forming in the heavens, recently stirred scientific circles of Europe. Now it is being given particular attention in America, in connection with the recent discovery at the Harvard observatory, where photographs were taken showing that a faint and nameless luminous haze in the sky in the constellation of Sagittarius, the Archer, is a distant universe.

From these photographs Dr. Harlow Shapely, director of the observatory, estimates that it takes 1,000,000 years for light to travel from this newly found universe, which, he says, is the most distant object ever viewed by the eye of man. He bases this statement on the fact that the most distant stars known prior to this measurement are only 250,000 light-years from our earth.

The new universe found by the mammoth lenses measures six quintillion miles away. It took a 100-inch reflecting telescope, the largest ever made, to find this "cloud of stars."

Babylonian Seals Form New Key to Ancient Past

Philadelphia.—Through the possession of more than 800 Babylonian seals, the translation and classification of which recently have been completed by Dr. Leon Legrain, curator of the Babylonian section of the university museum, the University of Pennsylvania has supplied the archeological world with an unbroken chain for the future study of the origin, development, art, religion and epigraphy of Babylon.

For two years Doctor Legrain has been at work classifying and translating the seals, which include five royal cylinders.

To the eyes of thousands who yearly flock to the university museum the latest exhibit will attract more than common interest, but to students of the historical mysteries of thousands of years ago the seals will supply three new elements of information.

First, an early chronology going back to nearly 5000 B. C.; second, an early Hamite art on painted seals and vases, undoubtedly executed before 3000 B. C., and third, a better-known Akkadian empire, of about 2700 B. C.

Would Sell Mechanical Army to United States

New York.—Niels W. Aasen, quiet, scholarly Danish inventor, has expressed his intention of coming to this country shortly to offer his "mechanical soldiers" and superbombs to the United States.

A line of soulless mechanisms buried in the earth along frontiers, waiting for years for the hand on an electric button that will release them to shower bullets and poison gas on invaders—that is Mr. Aasen's substitute for flesh and blood defensive armies. His human equivalent is reduced to a few engineers to guide the defensive lines and, on the offensive, to aviators, whose function would be poison-gas bombing, and to naval crews operating his newly invented depth bombs against enemy shipping.

With different wave lengths, successive tiers of the underground soldiers could be exploded to stop the advance of any army whose positions could be reported by radio from observation airplanes.

Humming Bird Died of Grief Over Mate's Loss

Oakland, Cal.—Otto Emerson, Hayward (Cal.) naturalist, who found two humming birds a few days old and raised them until full grown, reports that one of them died of grief because it accidentally caused the death of the other.

Emerson said the birds were inseparable. For hours they would play together, and at night they would roost close to each other. One day in their aerial swinging, one knocked the other with force against a wall. The injured bird retired to a dark corner and paid no attention to the solicitous chirpings of its mate. The next morning it was dead. The bereaved bird seemed dazed all that day. His feathers drooped, his head hung. He neither flew nor ate. The next morning he, too, was dead.

Such instances of birds' affection are not unusual, according to Emerson.

"Life Masks" Vienna Fad

Vienna.—Masks of the living are the latest hobby in Austria, and a prominent Viennese sculptor is doing a thriving business in them for prominent men and women. It takes about fifteen minutes to get the impression for a mask, and the cost is $15.

Bones of Mastedon Found

Tucson, Ariz.—The massive bones of a mastedon, believed to have lived during the Pliocene period, some 500,000 years ago, have been found near here and turned over to the University of Arizona.

ANYTHING'LL DO

They stood in the wings of the opera house. In a few moments she was to go on.

"One last word," said the conductor.

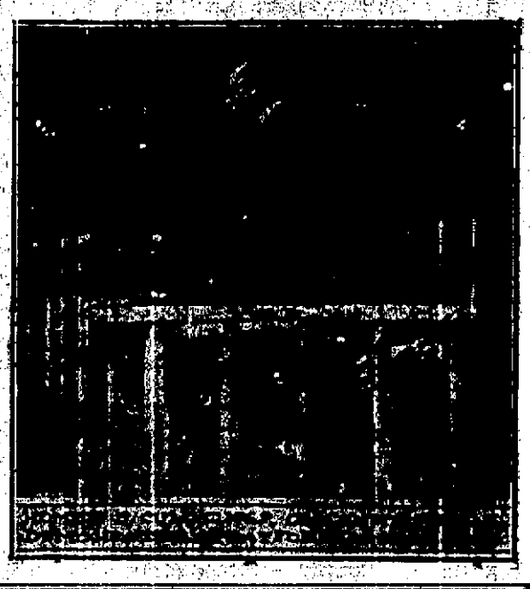

"Yes, maestro?"

"If you forget your lines do not hesitate. Never falter."

"But what shall I sing?" asked the new diva.

Carey ASFALTSLATE SHINGLES

The Shingle that never curls

Carey Individual Shingles make a more individual roof

CAREY Asfaltslate Shingles "The Shingle that never curls" are large sized individual shingles. (They do not come in strips.) This gives the home owner the following advantages —

They produce more artistic and "individual" roof effects. They also give three layer protection as contrasted with only two layer protection afforded by strip shingles. They are surfaced with crushed slate in Indian Red, Sage Green or Blue-Black fadeless colors.

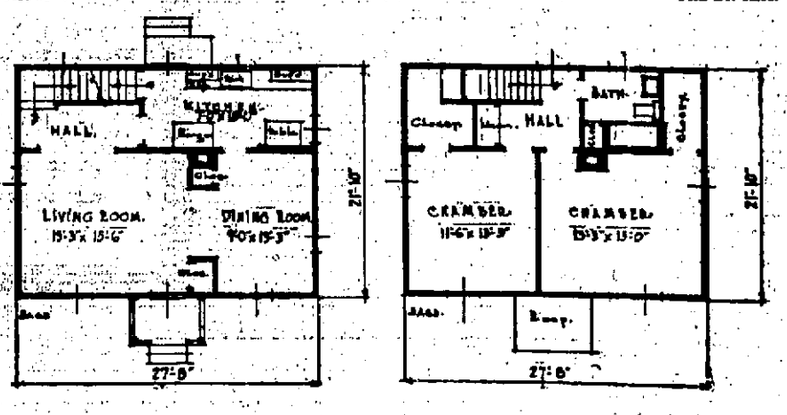

If you want a beautiful, durable roof get "The Shingle that never curls."

FIVE ROOM HOME WITH MANY POSSIBILITIES

Copyright, 1926—Architects' Small House Service Bureau. Plan No. 5A88.

IN this five-room, full two-story house, economy is combined with good appearance. The design does not follow any tradition in a slavish way, but is reminiscent of the colonial. All elements that tend to increase costs have been rigidly cut out. There are no angles and few breaks in plan; no dormers and the roof is extremely simple. All materials are stock size and dimensions.

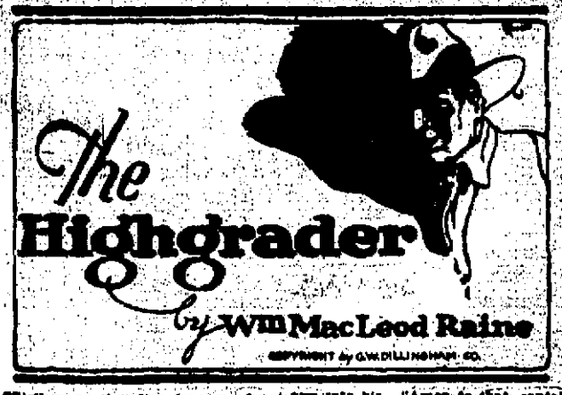

The plan is very flexible. The frontage may be between 30 and 36 feet. The porch may be added almost anywhere. The living and dining rooms may be separate, or thrown together. The dining alcove may be used or omitted.

The construction is frame, with siding or shingle exterior, shingle roof, cement base course, and masonry foundations.

The cost to build this house, including heating, plumbing, lighting, painting, ready to live in, but not including wall decorations, should range between $4,500 and $5,500. In certain localities where costs are high, the highest figure quoted would be too low. In other localities, the lowest figure quoted would be more than sufficient. The range of $1,000 is given to cover differences in the way the house is built and how thoroughly it is equipped and completed.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The plans for small houses are furnished by the Regional Bureau of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., an organization made up of the representative practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. The bureau is controlled by the American Institute of Architects, and has the endorsement of the Department of Commerce, United States government. It is practically a nonprofit making public service, and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and dependable small house plan service at modest cost. For information regarding the blue prints and specifications address the Home Building Editor of this paper. The United States bureau maintains an information department to answer home builders' questions at no charge. Enclose stamped addressed envelope.

"Strikes me that I've done my duty by the matter."

"You have—admirably," she scoffed.

An easy-going man, he did not cross bridges till he came to them. His wife had persuaded him that Moya needed a talking to, but he was glad to be through with it.

"Hang the scamp, anyhow!" he laughed. "Maybe he'll break his neck on one of those cottew branches he's so fond of riding. Maybe they'll put him safely away in prison, where there is neither marrying nor giving in marriage."

"It's even possible," she added with a murmur of half-embarrassed laughter, "that if he honored one with an offer—which it has never entered his head to do—one might regretfully decline with thanks."

"Amen! In the meantime God lead your grace by the hand, as old Bacon says." He brought his heels together, bowed over her fingers, and kissed them with exaggerated old-fashioned gallantry.

"Who's being romantic now?" she wanted to know gayly.

* * * * * * *

A voice hailed Jack. Colter was hurrying up the street, plainly excited. Kilmeny moved a few steps toward him.

Lady Jim took advantage of his absence to attack Moya from another angle. "My dear, I wish I could show you how much depends on a similarity of tastes, or habits, of standards. Matrimony means more than love. It means adjustment."

"I've thought of that too. But . . . when you love enough that doesn't help the adjustment?" asked the girl naively.

She had appealed to Farquhar. That gentleman came to her assistance. "It does."

"This isn't a matter to be decided merely by personal preference," urged the older woman. "There may be—consequences."

The color beat into the face of the young woman in a wave, but her eyes held steadily to those of Lady Farquhar.

"I . . . hope so."

"Bravo, Moya!" applauded her guardian, clapping his hands softly.

"Don't you think they—the consequences—deserve a better chance than you will give them?"

"I'll answer that, Di," spoke up Farquhar. "When a girl chooses for the father of her children a man who is clean and strong and virile, and on top of that her lover, she is giving them the best possible chance in life."

Moya's gratitude shone through the eyes that met those of her guardian.

Kilmeny swung back to the group he had left. "I've good news, friends. This is my lucky day. You remember that when I was rescued from the Golden Nugget my pockets were full of ore samples I had picked up as I was tunneling."

"Yes . . . picked them up while you were delirious, didn't you?" Farquhar replied.

"Must have, I reckon. Well, you know how miners are always having pieces of quartz assayed. Colter took these to the man we employ. He's just learned that it is high-grade stuff."

"You've made a strike?"

"Looks like it. Colter wasn't taking any chances, anyhow. He hiked right around to the owners of the mine and signed up a five-year lease in his name and mine."

Farquhar shook hands with him cordially. "Hope you make a fortune, Kilmeny."

Moya's chaperon, facing the inevitable, capitulated as gracefully as she could. After all, the girl might have done worse. The man she had chosen was well born, good looking, forceful and a leader in his community. If this fortunate strike was going to leave him well off, clearly she must make the best of him.

"You're a lucky man. I hope you know you don't deserve a girl like Moya," she told him as she shook hands.

"I know it, all right. Can you tell me who does?" he flung back, with a gay insouciant smile.

At that moment Ned Kilmeny stepped out upon the hotel porch. Lady Jim nodded toward him.

"Perhaps," his cousin conceded. "But in this little old world a man doesn't get what he deserves."

"I see he doesn't. Ned is a better man than you."

"Yes," he admitted.

Captain Kilmeny, coming down the porch steps, saw in a flash what had happened. He came forward with the even stride and impassive face that seldom deserted him. In two sentences Lady Farquhar told him the facts.

"You lucky dog," he said to his cousin as their hands gripped.

Jack had never liked him better than in this moment when he was giving up so cheerfully the thing he wanted most in the world.

"It isn't always the best man that wins, captain. I take off my hat to the better men who have tried and failed. Perhaps it may be a comfort to them to know that I'm the man that needs her most."

The captain turned to Moya. "So you've found that good hunting already," he said to her in a low voice.

"Yes, I think I have . . . I'm sure of it, Ned." Her eyes were full of tender sympathy for him. She wished she could tell him how much she admired his fine spirit.

"God keep you happy," he said wistfully.

Jack joined them and slipped Moya's arm into his. "Amen to that, captain. And since Jack Kilmeny has been appointed deputy on the job I'm going to see your wish comes true."

Moya looked at her lover and smiled.

TEXAS LANDMARK IS BEING RAZED

72-Year-Old Schoolhouse Has Romantic History.

Austin, Tex.—Austin's first schoolhouse, the parent of all Texas educational institutions and a landmark in the Southwest, is being razed in preparation for the erection of a modern residence upon the site where the school has stood the last 72 years.

A bride's wedding gift, the old structure has in turn been a home, a schoolhouse, a powder magazine for the Confederate army, a public meeting place, and in the later days a boarding house for university students.

It was built in 1852 by the slaves of Louis Horst, a land baron of those days. It has changed hands only twice in its history and is now owned by Edward Booth, who wants to erect a modern dwelling on the site.

Its limerock walls have withstood even an attack by the federal army, whose soldiers, during the reconstruction period, ripped off its roof and all its floors to make platforms for their tents.

Erected in 1852.

The occasion for the erection of the house was the marriage of Miss Louise Horst, daughter of the great landowner, to George Robinson in 1852. The bride's father owned a vast tract of land, including the present university neighborhood and all north Austin, extending approximately as far south as Fifteenth street, which then marked the northern boundary of the city limits, though the town itself was at that time a full mile away, situated upon the banks of the Colorado.

Horst desired to build his daughter a home as a wedding gift. Accordingly, in the year of her marriage, he built the ancient structure which stood until recently in as firm a condition as it was on the day of its completion. The "lot" which went with the house included practically all of present north Austin.

Used as Powder House.

In 1862, when the Yankees captured New Orleans and Galveston, excitement ran high in the southern part of the state, and three forts were erected to guard approaches to the capital city. The rock edifice was then turned into a powder house and magazine for high explosives. But when Dick Taylor with a handful of Texans defeated Banks and Porter at Sabine Cross Roads in April of 1863, the excitement died out, and the old house was emptied of its military equipment and again made into a schoolhouse.

Louis Horst, grandson of the elder Horst who erected the house, and a resident of Austin at the present time, spent his first school days in this old hall.

Refuge in Indian Attacks.

For many years the seven-room rock house was a refuge for people living in the neighborhood when Indian attacks were made. Numerous legends concerning scalpings and Indian atrocities that occurred around the old landmark are yet told.

The nearest to destruction that has ever fallen to the lot of the ancient building, prior to the razing now going on, occurred during the first days of the period of reconstruction following the Civil war, when Union troops were stationed in Austin to reinstate federal power and the state government. They pitched their tents on College hill, where the plant of the University of Texas stands today; but when it rained the ground became too damp for their convenience. The soldiers were then ordered to make lumber floors for the tents, wood for which was to be taken from the old [illegible] schoolhouse. The school was broken up and every board in and on the house was taken—the porch, window frames, blinds, doors, roofing, floors and all. Nothing was left but the rock walls.

The elder Horst appealed several times to the legislature for damage done to the building by federal troops, but indemnity was never obtained.

Milk-Burning Engine Draws Cars 20 Miles

Chicago.—Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health commissioner of Chicago, ran a train over the Rock Island tracks from the Englewood station to Beverly Hills and back, about twenty miles, using for fuel chunks of dry milk instead of coal.

When the skeptical crowd reached the station Doctor Bundesen was at the throttle in the engine cab and E. Werthmuller, the fireman, was shoveling chunks of dried cow's milk into the firebox. During the entire experiment milk was the only thing fed to the fire.

The locomotive pulled a train of five cars, carrying more than 200 passengers, mostly children, from the Chicago Home for Friendless Children and the Chicago Orphan asylum.

Water-Well Fight of Bible Times Recalled

Jerusalem.—The old quarrels over water wells in the times of Abraham, as recorded in the Bible, were recalled by a serious quarrel which broke out between two Arab tribes in the neighborhood of Valadi.

In a dispute over the rights to the only water well in the vicinity, the two tribes engaged in a battle which resulted in the death of one person and the wounding of eight others.

The authorities have started an investigation and sent a force of police into the district.

Obedience to Orders Brought Due Reward

This story, told me by William C. McCloy, who for many years was city editor and then managing editor of Charles A. Dana's evening newspaper, is not printed here to encourage insubordination in journalistic local staffs, writes Girard in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

But it concerns a Philadelphian who was, first a reporter here and then went to Mr. Dana's paper and afterward graduated into a novelist and playwright, Richard Harding Davis.

McCloy sent Davis to report an important football game. Soon after the whistle blew, Arthur Brisbane, then the managing editor, went to Davis and asked him for his side-line badge. Brisbane had a friend who was anxious to get a closeup of the players.

"No, Mr. Brisbane," said Davis, "my city editor sent me here to report this game, and before it is over something might happen, when I should need this badge."

Brisbane urged that he would take the blame, but "Dick" insisted that he was the fellow assigned to the job and must stick to his badge.

Next day Brisbane went to McCloy and told him how one of his reporters had defied a request of the managing editor.

"A fellow like that," said the mighty Arthur, "should have his salary raised, and I ask you to see that it is done immediately."

Carefully Thought Out

"Mother," said Bobby, "can I be a preacher when I grow up?"

"Of course you may, dear, if you want to."

"Yes, I do. I s'pose I've got to go to church all my life, anyhow; an' it's a good deal harder to sit still then it is to walk around and holler."

Her Friend Says:

"She Is Skinny"

If she only knew that she could put on at least five pounds of good, healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face and run-down looks.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the distasteful, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitamines that make flesh, creates appetite, builds up the power to resist diseases and chases away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctors are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which Connellsville Drug Co., A. A. Clarke, and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for this wonderful upbuilding medicine for children, especially after sickness, and sixty tablets only cost an cents.

STATUE FOR BUFFALO BILL

Cody, Wyo., on July 4 boasts Colonel William F. Cody, better known the world over as Buffalo Bill, Indian fighter and army scout. This huge equestrian statue of the late plainsman, 13 feet high, is the work of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, sculptress wife of New York City's multi-millionaire sportsman, who is shown at its base with Albert Russell, architect, and Ricarda Nesbith, the cute her model. The statue, erected by the Buffalo Bill Memorial Association at the Cody, Wyo., entrance to the Yellowstone National Park, will be unveiled by Miss Jan Cody Garlow, of Cody, Buffalo Bill's granddaughter, on July 4.

PASSPORTS TO ST. PETER IN OLD RUSSIAN GRAVES

Documents Recently Found Show They Were Issued Only to the Wealthy Class.

Leningrad.—Passports for the safe departure of St. Peter were given to the departed early in the Nineteenth century throughout Russia, according to documents found recently in old graves here. These documents were issued usually only to members of the wealthy classes, as records indicate that they cost a lot of gold, and were considered as a reasonable guarantee that the departed person so honored would be welcome at the Golden Gates.

A sample of the passports reads: "I, Nicholas Stobylew, bishop of St. Petersburg, do hereby certify that the person herein mentioned lived as a good Christian and, although he sometimes sinned, yet he confessed his sins and was forgiven. He worshiped the saints, he fasted and begged, and was human. Considering the fact that the dear departed one has made his peace with him, and confessed all to his father confessor, I gladly certify to this passport for presentation to St. Peter with the hope that it will be duly honored and that our beloved friend will have due and free access to Heaven and enjoy all the privileges therein forever and without any hindrances."

New York Had Public Baths Back in 1824

In the New York city directory of 1824 there was a page advertisement of the "Washington Bath, 589 Pearl street, near Broadway," and it was headed by a picture of a portable tub large enough in which an adult person could completely immerse, and above this cut was "Marble and Tin," which would seem to indicate that already there were styles in tubs, and they were both stationary and portable.

The advertisement continued as follows: "Has been newly painted, cleansed and much improved; marble tubs and new pipes introduced and baths of any temperature furnished at the shortest notice, from sunrise until 10 o'clock p. m. throughout the year. Warm rooms during the winter. Bathing tubs to let for the convenience of those who cannot visit the bath.

"For the accommodation of those afflicted with eruptions of the skin and chronic complaints a fumigating apparatus has been erected."

Last of Great Rulers

The title of great mogul was given the chiefs of the Mogul empire, founded in Hindustan in 1525, A. D., by Baber, a descendant of Tamerlane, the famous Mongol conqueror.

For more than two centuries the Mongol emperors ruled India and lived in great magnificence at Delhi, which continued to be their capital until the reign of Akbar (1556-1605), when it was transferred to Agra, says the Detroit News. They were finally conquered by the English and in 1806 Shah Alium, the last person to whom the title of "great mogul" rightly belonged, having died, the Mogul empire ceased to exist.

The religion of the Moguls was Mohammedan, but, although introduced by them into India, it was never accepted by the native Hindus.

Bad Case

A Hindu father received the following letter: "Dear Sir: For some remote time to past a secret passion has hring my bosom internally with loving for your daughter. I have navigated every channel in the magnitude of my extensive jurisdiction to cruelly smother the growing love knot that is being constructed in my within side, but the humid lamp of affection trimmed by Cupid's productive hand still nourishes my love-sickened heart. My educational capabilities have abandoned me safe here I now cling to those lovely long tresses of your much-coveted daughter like a marine ship wrecked on the rock of love."—Boston Transcript.

Princeton's Carnegie Lake Filling With Mud

Princeton, N. J.—Carnegie lake, the artificial body of water given Princeton university in 1907 by Andrew Carnegie, is being filled with mud deposits from Stony Brook creek.

However, normal activity on the lake has not been curtailed and the racing shells use it daily.

The lake, which is 3¾ miles long and from 600 to 2,000 feet wide, was built over the bed of Stony Brook creek, and at the time of its construction it was recognized that the sediment deposited by the creek and by the Millstone river would have to be eliminated.

A dam was built, but it has not kept back as much mud as was expected.

Estimated cost of repairing the present damage would be in the neighborhood of $20,000, as large dredges will be necessary. The work will be started after commencement in June.

Fishermen Catch Trout in Hats at Vancouver

Vancouver, B. C.—The Fraser river is alive with oolichans or candle fish, and the Dolly Varden trout are coming to the surface in such quantities that the fishermen can catch them in their hats from the sides of their boats.

These trout feed on the oolichans, and when they are full come to the surface and float there for a while, going with the current instead of against it as is their custom.

Oolichans are so full of oil that the trout become very fat after the small fish arrive in the river.
